

We Are Here:

Memories of the Lithuanian Holocaust

By Ellen Cassedy

University of Nebraska Press, 2012

One woman's personal journey into the old Jewish heartland expands into a larger exploration.

Probing the terrain of memory and moral dilemmas, Cassedy offers a unique, close-up view of how a post-Holocaust, post-Soviet nation is encountering the past. She offers hope for tolerance and mutual understanding.

Reviews

"Listens to all the voices and perspectives...attempts to know and comprehend rather than judge."

– New York Review of Books

"Engaging and lucid...quite an achievement."

– Lithuanian Heritage

"Brilliantly balanced, totally engaging, and constantly penetrating." – Jewish Book Council
